Text Books.

To the Editor of The Oregonian

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction has sent a circular to the County School Superintendents asking them to endorse three text books recommended by the State Board of Education. The gentlemen who constitute the Board have too much ability not to make a good choice. The works on arithmetic, natural science, geography and writing are all good. But how Clark's Grammar ever slipped into the list puzzles me. I can account for it by supposing that some took it on trust, and some, having had their choice in some other branch, kept silent on this.

This work was first published in 1848. It has had the most enterprising publishers in the United States to advance its circulation, and to give it the benefit of their extensive connections. By the efforts of Barnes & Co., and by the favor of those who believe that every novelty must necessarily be an improvement, it has been adopted in many schools. But it has not been able to keep its place, because for all the purposes for which grammar is taught in common schools, it is worthless. "It is one of those miserable treatises which only caricature the subject and of which it is rather an advantage to be ignorant."

Clark's system may be stated in a nut shell: "Every sentence consists of a subject and predicate, and may consist of subject, predicate and object. All the other words must be adjuncts of these three elements." The whole book is devoted to this thought, and to the expressing of it in diagrams.

Let us examine the book a little. What should we think of a student's grammatical knowledge who could not answer such elementary questions as, What is number, in grammar? What is person? What is case? Well, Clark considers such trifles beneath his notice. The definitions of those simple terms cannot be found in his book. I have his Practical Grammar, 15th edition.

"He is a friend of mine, and lives next door to Smith's." Come, you old pedagogues and ex pedagogues all over the country, in what case are "mine" and "Smith's?" Possessive of course? Not at all; this comes of getting your education before the calculus of diagrams had been applied to language. We are all wrong, gentlemen, all wrong. Turn to page 243 of Clark's Practical Grammar and learn that they are both in the objective case. No slip of the pen—you will find arguments there to prove it. Come, now, one more, which is the better English, "you were" or "you was?" You decide in favor of the sentence "you were." Ah! poor fellows, you do not know how to congurate the verb "to be." Look on page 124 and you will have the consolation to know that your children will be better instructed than their fathers, and that they will be taught to say "you was."

"They are stronger than lions." Do you think this means "They are stronger than lions (are)?" Well, you may think so, but you who continue still to "rear the infant mind" must make up your own minds to call "than" a preposition, and to consider "lions" in the objective case. We are told that the sentence "you were wiser all the time than me," is good English, page 171. The editors of Webster's Dictionary show a want of learning—when tried by the diagram system—that is painful to contemplate. The old fogies, in their latest edition, say: "The pronoun you is always used in connection with a plural verb." "The noun following than in its common construction is in the nominative case." I hope this matter will be looked to, and that Yale College and Harvard will be given to understand that Oregon has decided officially, that their teachings are too backward for the year of grace 1873.

"Taking a madman's sword to prevent his doing mischief can not be regarded as robbing him," is a sentence that seems to give Mr. Clark as much pleasure to repeat as it did the worthy Buffon to recite his cluck, click, quack, quack, and bow-wow. Now, although he diagrams it two or three times, and repeats it for illustration eight or ten times more, and evidently considers it a model of elegant English, and although he says that the participial form will express the thought more concisely and elegantly than any other, yet Goold Brown, in his grammar of English grammars, not stopping to discuss whether it is the best expression possible, calmly arranges it among his samples of false syntax. Every sentence given to a school boy as a model should be unquestionably correct. But this sentence, even if allowed to be correct as given by Clark, gives rise to something uncommon in etymology. "A madman's sword" contains the peculiarity. We are told to parse "madman's" as an adjective limiting sword, and then to parse "A" as and adjective limiting madman. But can one adjective limit another adjective? And is a noun in the possessive case an adjective? Is not madman's of the third person, masculine gender? Do adjectives have person and gender in English? We are told by Clark that his method is the inductive, and with that it stands or falls. His method of reaching the conclusion that nouns in the possessive case are adjectives is a fair example of his induction. "Children's shoes," he says, are not shoes that belong to children but shoes that are suitable for children. "Children's" shows the kind of "shoes," hence an adjective. So we are left to infer that a "madman's sword" is a sword suitable for a madman. Now, if this is the inductive method, the sooner it falls the better.

Again, we are told that "two thirds of my hair has fallen off," is the correct expression, because "hair" is the logical subject. Notwithstanding the confidence of his assertion, his principle is denied and his example declared ungrammatical. (Grammar of Grammars.)

"Like" is called a preposition in the phrase, "an hour like this." "This" is in the objective case after "like." We always considered like in such sentences an adjective, and were taught to compare it, Pos. like, Comp. liker, Superl. likest. We would like to know from the State Board of Education whether comparison is or is not a property of prepositions. The sentence will be found on page 273. The mistake is in calling an adjective a preposition. On page 168 we find the short sentence, "nature all blooming like thee." "Like" is again called a preposition, but it is as plainly an adverb in this sentence as it was an adjective in the other. "It was not me that you saw." This sentence is quoted on page 231, but who was the author, Clark does not condescend to inform us. He tells us it is all right, and proves that the usage is well established in English literature by quoting an anonymous Latin sentence. This is a delicate example of induction. Who, after reading that Latin sentence, is not prepared to pity the long line of grammarians and scholars who have ignorantly written, it was not I that you saw, and who have so ignorantly taught that "a noun or a pronoun put after a verb or a participle not transitive, agrees in case with a preceding noun or pronoun referring to the same thing?"

But there is no need to continue this. The book is full of errors, and its system, even if it taught truth, is worthless. "In teaching grammar, the business lies partly between the master and his scholar, and partly between the boy and his book. What one fails to do must either be done by another or left undone." The best way to teach this science is to place as much of the work between the boy and his book as possible, to refer him to his book for the information that he needs, and in general for the solution of all his doubts. But then the teacher must see that he does not set the boy to grope his way through a wilderness of absurdities. He must know that he has a book, which not only contains the requisite information, but arranges it so that every item of it may be readily found. Is Clark's Grammar such a book? Let those who have used it longest, answer.

THULAH.

ASTORIA, May 19, 1873.

Of 217 peerages created in England since the 1st of January, 1820, only 133 yet remain upon the rolls. The number of peers in 1830 was 393; the continual additions by successive Prime Ministers have raised it to 480. Of the peerages created in the Plantagenet reigns only 14 survive, of the Tudor reigns, 11, of the Stuart reigns, 46, of George I. and II., 26, of George III., 141; of George IV., 43; of William IV., 41; and of Queen Victoria, 89. When it is borne in mind that more than 400 peerages were created in the reign of George III., and that the honor can only be extinguished by death and not by resignation, the fact that so few as 130 now remain is a remarkable one.

EASTERN DATES TO MAY 21.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Wheeler's Exploring Expedition.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Lieut. Wheeler's exploration party will leave in a few days. Operations are contemplated in explorations and surveys west of the one-hundredth meridian during the field season of 1873, to include portions of Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico. The purpose of the Powder River expedition, spoken of in Maj. Forsyth's dispatch to Gen. Sheridan, is to ascertain what are the best points for the location of the new military posts and supply depots in the Indian country near the line of the Northern Pacific Railroad.

EASTERN STATES.

The Powder River Expedition.

CHICAGO, May 20.—The following dispatch was received yesterday:

"BISMARCK, Dakota Territory, May 18.—Lieut. General Phil. Sheridan arrived here at 6 o'clock this afternoon. The expedition to Powder river, via the Yellowstone, was a complete success. The steamer Key West, the second largest steamer on the Upper Missouri, went up to within three miles of the mouth of Powder river, and if we had had proper appliances to have taken out two loose rocks in the channel at Key West, the worst rapids on the river, she could have gone up at least eighty miles further. At high water she could have gone over these rocks. At the time the expedition went up, the spring rise had not occurred and the water was lower than at any time previous for three years. The Yellowstone is a better river to navigate than the Upper Missouri above Buford.

(Signed) GEO. A. FORSYTH, Major and A. A. G."

The New Sloops of War.

The Secretary of the Navy has decided to have the eight sloops of war, authorized by the act of Congress, built as follows: One each at Norfolk, New York, Kittery and Charlestown Navy Yards. The last named vessel is to be iron, the others of wood. Another is to be built at the Kittery Yard of material furnished by the Navy Department, the contract to be given to the lowest responsible bidder. The sixth, seventh and eighth are to be built by private yards by contract. All are to be screw propellers.

Very Vague.

LITTLE ROCK, May 20.—The political situation is quiet. The militia on duty at the State House has been disbanded, the Governor not apprehending any further need of their services. Governor Baxter to-day appointed nearly one hundred county officers in various parts of the State, to whom commissions will be sent to-morrow.

A Gigantic Scheme.

NEW YORK, May 20.—A sensational Washington special says the Government has a grand annexation scheme on hand, and the acquisition of the Sandwich Islands is to be the first step made. I learn from official sources that a commissioner is about starting for San Francisco to proceed thence to the Islands, to arrange the preliminaries with the King. The next step will be the formation of a new State out of that part of Northern Mexico which contains the old silver mines, and its annexation to the United States. This will be brought about through grants made to the Rosecrans railroad enterprises, and the advance of the Texas Pacific railroad, and by means of New York capitalists. The same parties are engaged in this work who planned the Lower California railroad, and made a failure of it, but this time it will be sure. When Lower California and the Silver State shall have been annexed, the Government will turn its eyes elsewhere, and it is deemed probable that a proposition will be made to relieve Great Britain of its burden of Canada.

THE CALIFORNIA INDIAN WAR!

Captain Jack on a Tour Again!

Intelligence from the Pitt River Country.

YREKA, May 21.—The regular courier arrived at a late hour last night, bringing news that the Modocs were out to the south and west of the lava bed, causing fears that they were endeavoring to get around on Butte Creek and Bogus.

From Capt. Miere, just from Big Valley, we learn further items concerning the Pitt River Indians. The settlers in the eastern part of the county have been so used to Indian scares every season that they pay but little attention to them for any length of time. Jos. Edson, who went over to Big Valley some ten days ago, discovered tracks of three Indians crossing the emigrant road beyond Pilgrim's Camp. The Indians were evidently going down to McCloud river. Of what tribe they were is a mystery. Mr. Ball, bound for Big Valley with a team and wagon, concluded he would go by Fort Crook, rather than take any risk of going via Sheep Rock and Pilgrim's Camp. From Egg Lake on Pitt River, trails have been found leading towards the lava beds and Modoc camps which shows that there has been constant communication with the Modocs since hostilities commenced. The Indians have been giving war dances occasionally, and not long ago a council of fifty warriors was held at Willow Creek, chief Paddy Dick and his Big Valley band of thirty being present. The whites hearing of all these doings got an Indian named Jack, who was raised among the whites in Shasta Valley, to go and find out what they were about. When he reached there, one warrior said they could whip the whites and would help the Modocs, and then stopped, a warrior having cautioned him on account of Jack's presence. The Indians looked and talked fight. Shortly after, Jack talked with Paddy Dick, the chief of the Big Valley band, telling him he could not whip the whites, which caused an angry dispute, in which Pat used very insulting language towards Jack. When Hasbrouck's command passed through Big Valley, the Pitt Rivers were excited and badly scared, as though guilty of attempting treachery, and kept up at their natural fort on the head of Juniper Creek in the Sierra Nevada range, a very rocky place where they have plenty of water, and a locality in which Gen. Crook lost a great many men in attempting to carry. The Indians professed great friendship at that time, but as soon as the troops left and they knew where they were going, the Pitt Rivers began to act again as before. Another Indian, raised among whites, called Sam, who works at the hotel in Adin, got mad at a lot of them one day, and after cursing them awhile, asked, "why you talk peace here and war at rancherie? Why not talk same here as at rancherie?" The Pitt Rivers have threatened to kill Sam and also Jack and his brother, for posting the whites. They endeavor to make out that they tell lies, while the whites have great confidence in them.

At the Council which was held at Fall River last week, Doten said every Indian in the neighborhood was undoubtedly there as none could be seen along the river or in the valleys, as usual, when he came through.

They were to have a big talk for two or three days, particulars of which a correspondent will give us.

The Piutes are all away from their country, some of them undoubtedly with the Modocs. Twenty five Piutes were lately seen in Surprise Valley, but they suddenly disappeared, no one knew where. Old Shaveheed, Chief of the Hot Creek band, goes around telling the Indians that if they do not fight, they will all be forced to go on reservations, and if he could have had his way, the Pitt river tribe would have been with the Modocs at the start. There are many belonging to the tribe who are eager for a fight, and the long delay in whipping the Modocs will soon start them on the war path. If the war against the Modocs had been prosecuted during the winter, when it was impossible to traverse the mountains, the Modocs could have been easily whipped and the delay caused by the miserable Peace Commission humbug may yet be the result of getting many thousands of hostile Indians on the war path. It is also said that a large amount of ammunition has been sold in east in Siskiyou from some of the stores, ostensibly to white men, to be resold to Indians, as the quantity was more than the whites could use for years. Some of the settlers say that in case of trouble, should they need ammunition, they would have to go to the Indians to get it.

We give these items as the current reports, in order that the settlers may examine into them and be ready to guard against any sudden attacks. The Pitt Rivers will be as smooth tongued and peaceably disposed as Capt. Jack and Sconchin were when they coaxed Canby and Thomas into their trap to be massacred.

Important, if True.

Captain Jack Dissolves Partnership.

He Goes to Pitt River!

CAMP SOUTH TULE LAKE, May 20—10 A. M.—Lieutenant Boutelle reports the Modocs at war among themselves. The day after the battle near Sorass or Dry Lake, two thirds of the warriors decided that there was no use continuing the contest. Some of the Modocs even made bold to say they would not fight any more except in self defense. Jack waxed wroth at this defection, and threatened to kill the recreant warriors. Finally he agreed to a cessation of hostilities, and dispersed the warriors to their couches in the rocks. Then he called together a few of his braves, collected the finest weapons, ammunition and horses, and started off for the Pitt river country. The Modocs fought by Hasbrouck's command were encountered by a detachment under Captain Jackson at first, and routed afterwards. The main command under Hasbrouck stirred them up a little. The Modocs stampeded upon the approach of the soldiers.

MAY 20, 10:30 A. M.—Latest advices state that the Modocs have been seen along the road between here and Van Bremer's.

The Daily Oregonian.

THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 22, 1873.

The New Situation.

Captain Jack has left the lava bed, and the troops are once more compelled to move. Whither he has gone we are not informed. Possibly he has removed to "a more Southern and a warmer clime" as the Secretary of the Interior has pleasantly expressed it. The movement adds somewhat to the chieftain's reputation as a strategist. It will be observed that there was a schism among the faithful. Some of the Modocs appear to have studied carefully the fate of that trio of warriors who ascended into glory on the fragments of a shell whose properties they were studying with curious teeth at the moment of its explosion. The comrades of those warriors who thus died that their comrades might understand the true theory of shells, appear to have profited by this bit of experience. The two efficient civilizers of the century are saltpetre and the Bible. Either may supplement the other. These savages, having tested the [illegible] of them, now behold the introduction of an agent unknown to their forefathers at the time of Ben Wright's Sicilian Vespers, and with superstitious awe they decline to continue a combat which threatens (!) to terminate only in their destruction. Some have declined to fight longer. Just here Captain Jack, finding threats useless, wisely conciliates and sends the warriors to their rocky couches (rendered comfortable only by Peace Commission blankets), folds his tent like the conventional Arab, and as silently steals—the best [illegible], a plentiful supply of ammunition and the choicest Peace Commission horses, [illegible] away to the hills!

The new situation involves neither new nor serious complications. To be sure we do not know where Captain Jack is, nor have we ever had such definite knowledge of his whereabouts as would lead us to believe that the troops would ever find him. He might just as well have been dubbed "Jack the Giant-Killer," since he seems to have been possessed of a cap similar to that of the nursery [illegible], whose property it was to make the [illegible] invisible. He has been everywhere, [illegible]. Passing from behind some heap of scoria, he smote our soldiers hip and thigh, and then he was seen wildly dancing on [illegible] promontory beyond, jeering at the expiring [illegible] of forty millions of civilized [illegible]. Upon the whole we may rejoice that Jack has left his famous [illegible] caves. We have heard so much of "natural fortress" and "impregnable stronghold," that we long to see the Modocs [illegible], by way of variety. We shall pray that they do not get into a "[illegible] fortress." We have been told [illegible] that the troops would make quick work of extermination if once they could get him on an equal footing. Now that Jack has headed for the Pitt River country, we [illegible] to lose sight of our thousand soldiers (with their howitzers) in the sombre forests, [illegible] lead from the lava-beds up to other strongholds potential. Lucky will be the troops if these do not prove [illegible]. To the eye of the sober [illegible] the exodus of the Modoc [illegible] is fraught with [illegible] of [illegible]. Yonder they go, up, up [illegible] the [illegible] lions of Tule Lake to the [illegible] of the [illegible]—just where [illegible] the sermons of [illegible] frightened him into Nowhere. [illegible] they climb the [illegible] and [illegible] in the setting [illegible].

But what will be done with those who refused? Shall we have another Commission with [illegible] gifts and [illegible]? Or shall we [illegible] them to a "more Southern and a warmer clime?"

The concert will be under the leadership of P. S. Gilmore."

Sir Bartle Frere is coming back to England, whether with laurel on his brow or not we are poorly prepared to affirm. He landed at Bombay on the 22d of April, "where he was enthusiastically welcomed by the European residents," says a dispatch. Sir Bartle went forth to abolish a certain slave trade. We have heard much of his conferences on the coast of Zanzibar. And we have heard, too, that the boats of one of his vessels once captured a slaver or two. But has Sir Bartle annihilated those fierce coasters who are, perhaps, the most accurate living representatives of the buccaneers of other days? His Wily Highness, the Sultan, has hitherto derived a princely income from this slave trade, and he would be less shrewd than the average Englishman should he readily consent to the sacrifice of revenue for the sake of a moral principle which is not yet recognized by all the civilized powers of Europe. It is the old question of ducats and duty, the former of which made the empire of the Sultan what it was

"In the golden prime of good Haroun Al Raschid."

The funny fellow of the Courier-Journal quotes the Boston Express as saying that "a hypocritical cabal has made Massachusetts stink in the eyes of the world," and remarks that he knows now where to find "that lost Louisville reporter who once told us of the unfortunate family who had been 'overtaken by the bitter pill of adversity.'"

He has a motto for the entrance to the lava bed: "Who enters here leaves his scalp behind"—which is a rather emaciated joke.

He speaks also of a picture of the Dixon bridge disaster, in a Chicago journal, which shows one of the unfallen spans on which are a horse and buggy which can't be rescued and will have to stay there always. Says he: "If we had just such a looking horse and buggy as that, we should like very much to see them on the unfallen span of a bridge where they couldn't be rescued and where they would have to stay always.

Rev. James Freeman Clarke, a prominent Boston divine, finds that his Fast-day sermon—a portion of which we have published—has been doctored so as to represent him as nominating General Butler for Governor of Massachusetts: "It is understood that a member from Massachusetts, who headed the foray on the Treasury, has announced his intention of being the next Governor of Massachusetts. If he succeeds in this, I hope he will not omit the word 'humiliation' in his proclamation; for certainly Massachusetts will then have reached a depth of humiliation of which she never dreamed." Mr. Clarke writes to the Louisville Courier-Journal of May 7th: "If General Butler and his friends regard this as a nomination, they are welcome to it!" Plain language from Truthful James Freeman, that.

As an instance of the stupendous rewards which the world bestows on modest virtue, we call special attention to the fact that the citizens of New York, Chicago and Boston have sent to Rev. Mr. Ancient, the preacher-hero of the Atlantic disaster, the princely sum of $666 22, with the humane request that he keep one-half, and distribute the other half among deserving families of Prospect Island. The mind of mortal man vainly essays to grasp the grandeur of this recognition of heroic virtue. Three hundred and thirty-three dollars and eleven cents! And the man saved twenty souls! Verily, "virtue is its own reward." It must be so.

Our correspondent Thaleb, whose letter appears this morning, gives the State Board of Education a nut to crack. The subject is an important one. Oregon is just now beginning to aspire to something like uniformity and system in her system of public instruction, and it is of the last importance that she begin right. As our correspondent says, the matter of advancement in the acquisition, is not a matter entirely between the pupil and the teacher, but it lies, to a very great extent, between the pupil and the text-book. It is only dull boys and girls that will not suffer injury from having unscientific and vicious text-books placed in their hands.

It is said that de Lesseps is now getting even with the English for discouraging his Suez Canal project. The actual cost of the work was £16,000,000, £12,000,000 of which was contributed by France. M. de Lesseps charges English shippers enormous tolls, and always, in case of dispute, manages to get into French courts. Johnny Bull growls a little, but there is no law against discrimination, and so his growls availeth him nought.

The bill in equity against the Union Pacific Railroad and Credit Mobilier Company will recite a number of important facts not brought out in the Congressional investigation. The Boston Advertiser says that among other things it will be charged that the Union Pacific directors and office seekers are largely interested in the telegraph line and Pullman car service along the road.

The Boston Advertiser thinks there is reason to believe that the coming contest for the Episcopal Bishopric of Massachusetts will lie between Dr. Henry C. Potter, of Grace Church, and Rev. They tell a queer story of one Rev. Dr. Mackie, of Elgin, England, who was so deeply stirred recently by the death of Rev. Dr. Wylie, there will be no public worship in the parish church of Elgin on Sunday next!"

Dr. Benjamin H. Paddock, of Brooklyn, was elected Bishop of Massachusetts by the Episcopal Convention in session at Boston, May 15th. His principal competitors were Dr. Henry C. Potter, of New York, Dr. James De Koven, of Racine, Wis., and Dr. Morgan L. Dix, of New York.

The New York Court of Appeals has sustained the decision of the Surrogate that the United States cannot accept bequests of real estate. The case in issue was the will of Charles Fox, giving half a million dollars worth of property to the Government, to help pay the national debt.

Henry Robinson, of Wayne Township, Butler County, O., preferred hoarding his money to investing it. After his death, on the 15th ult., a box was found hid in his house, containing $757 50 in silver, and $2,212 50 in gold. The sum of 400 in paper was afterward discovered. The silver and gold had been accumulating for many years, and if, as suggested by the correspondent who narrates the facts to Hamilton Telegraph he had put it out at interest, the $2,970 would have reached in twenty years, at 10 per cent., the sum of $12,000; or, if he had sold his coin when the premium was 200, and invested it in bonds, the sum realized would have been $25,000.

The Louisiana Difficulty.

Our morning dispatches mention the arrest of Melvin M. Cohn on a charge of assaulting Wm. Pitt Kellogg with intent to kill that gentleman. The particulars of this assault are to be found in the New York Herald of the 8th inst., from which paper we take the annexed:

This evening at half-past four o'clock, as Mr. Kellogg was coming out of the office of the Morgan Steamship Company, corner of Natchez alley and Magazine street, he was accosted by Mr. Charles R. Bailey, a prominent merchant of this city, who said:

"Are you Mr. Kellogg?"

Kellogg stared at him, but did not answer. Mr. Bailey then said:

"If you are, you are a cowardly, swindling scoundrel, and if you will stand like a man I will treat you as you deserve."

Mr. Kellogg made no answer; but, turning preternaturally pale, sprang into his carriage. Just at this moment

A PISTOL SHOT

Was heard, and Mr. Kellogg instantly placed his hands to his head and cried out, "Take me home! I'm shot!" The carriage immediately drove off.

We have found it impossible to ascertain who fired the shot. Several people saw the smoke, but no one saw the shooting.

AN EYEWITNESS' ACCOUNT OF THE AFFAIR.

Mr. Hutchinson, of the firm of C. A. Whitney & Co., said: "This morning a detachment of police took charge of and picketed the wharf of the Texas Railroad Company. They interfered with business to an unwarrantable extent and created considerable alarm. I rebuked Captain Flanagan, who was in charge, and sent word to Mr. Kellogg, expressing my disapprobation of their conduct.

ARRIVAL OF KELLOGG.

At half past four, o'clock Kellogg called at the office in his carriage to explain the matter. While doing so his carriage at the door was immediately surrounded by

A LARGE AND EXCITED CROWD,

Who commenced jeering and denouncing him. Just as the negro was driving off some one in the crowd fired a pistol, wounding Kellogg, it is said, in the neck. The driver immediately plied the whip and drove up Natchez street at a furious pace. The crowd lingered for some time in the neighborhood and the utmost excitement prevailed.

THE SHOOTING DONE BY A BOY.

A bystander who witnessed the whole affair called at the Herald office to state that the shooting was done by a boy about sixteen years of age, who escaped at a rapid pace down Magazine street. Mr. Kellogg was taken to the St. Charles Hotel, where he arrived very badly frightened, but unhurt.

Mr. Kellogg's version of the affair is somewhat more consistent with the dignity of the gubernatorial office. He relates the encounter with Mr. Bailey, and says:

As we were turning into Natchez alley, a moment after, a pistol was fired by some one unknown to me, and instantly I felt a peculiar sensation in the back of my neck. I think the ball cut through my hair and must have come through the back of the carriage top. At any rate, for some reason I do not understand, I fell forward on the front seat and the carriage dashed forward at a rapid rate. The driver evidently being scared, I found it impossible to restrain him, and we dashed along over toward Carondelet street, and into the stable. There I got out and came up here. That is the whole story.

On the night before this occurrence there were no Metropolitans (policemen) on the beat. Those who were in the city were concentrated at the different station-houses, to guard against surprise. Taking advantage of this condition of affairs, a mob broke into a gun store and captured the contents thereof. This outrage, says the Herald, received general condemnation, and was utterly repudiated by the citizens. Mr. McEnery issued the following proclamation on this subject:

To the People of New Orleans: I cannot permit the events of yesterday to pass by without calling your attention to a certain transaction that can only bring down reproach and shame upon the good name of this great city and its people. With the object of the meetings called yesterday and last night, which was to give expression to our sympathy and perhaps extend material aid to the heroic Deblanc and his brave people, who are baring their breasts in defence of the integrity of their homes and against the infamous usurpation which to-day affects to govern the State, I most heartily sympathise. These brave men deserve the active countenance and support of every honest man in the State. But the disorderly tumult and riotous action of some of the residents of this city, who after the adjournment of the meeting last night broke into and sacked the gun stores of Messrs. Mudge & Folsom, cannot be too severely condemned. I hereby, in the name of the good and true men of this State, characterise such acts as disgraceful and calculated only to bring down disaster upon the cause for which we, in common, are struggling, and I do sincerely hope that the plunderers may be detected and punished to the full extent afforded by our criminal Courts and the law. The cause of honest and just government in this State can but be subserved by peaceful, honest, determined and lawful resistance upon the part of its good people. If war is levied and armed attack made, we can but resist. But if not attacked, our true policy is one of peace.

JOHN McENERY.

In relation to Louisiana matters generally, the Herald says:

COLONEL DE BLANC.

In command of the citizen forces was regularly commissioned by Governor McEnery last winter as a regular Colonel of militia, and the forces were organized by him some time ago under his commission. They have, however, been largely recruited by volunteers.

The grand jury of this parish have been looking into the matter closely, and after having critically and profoundly weighed the indictments which were severally made, both against McEnery and Kellogg, have presented William Pitt Kellogg and all those aiding and abetting him in his usurpation of the government of the State of Louisiana. The grand jury proclaim that the right of self government is guaranteed to us by the Constitution of the United States, and declare that in their opinion the Metropolitan police should be regarded as criminals for abandoning their post of duty. They request Judge Abell through the Attorney General to summon William Pitt Kellogg, who claims to be Governor; James Longstreet, who claims to be Major General of the militia, and A. S. Badger, Superintendent of Metropolitan Police, to answer by what authority the police are sent out of the city. The grand jury further declare that Kellogg has violated his oath in sending the police into the country, thereby jeopardising the lives and property of the citizens of New Orleans. They are of the opinion that the usurpers should be criminally prosecuted. Judge Abell ordered that the report be filed and subpoenas issue for the individuals named in the report to appear before the grand jury to answer the charges made against them.

Chief Justice Chase.

In an obituary on Chief-Justice Chase, the Louisville Courier-Journal says:

In a mind so subtle and cultivated, and possessing rare gifts both of capacity for analysis and generalization, there was implanted an imperious ambition which gnawed like the worm that dieth not, and burned like the fire that would not be quenched. While a student of law under William Wirt, he addressed a beautiful and accomplished lady of Lynchburg, Va. She discarded him. Stung to the quick by this wound to a proud and sensitive spirit, he told her she had discarded a man who would some day be President of the United States. Throughout his life this was the goal of that ambition which, even in after years, illumined with a strange light his clear cut and classic features. He anxiously hoped for the Democratic nomination for President in 1868. When those hopes were dashed to the ground and broken he evinced the keen suffering of the gamester who had staked all on a single turn of the card and had lost. He felt that his constitution was giving way, but he carefully concealed those feelings, even from his intimate friends. Paralysis laid its shattering hand upon him, and his mind never regained its wonted power, but the old ambition was still there; the feverish longings for the fleeting emblems of temporal greatness still disturbed his slumbers and cankered his dreams. At times the old hope would brighten the wan but singularly marked and strikingly handsome face. A new light would illumine the heart and drive away its cloudy sorrow. But sadness would resume her seat and the agony of a crushing disappointment continued its desolate work.

The Chief Justice occupied the seat where Marshall and Taney had sat in the palmiest days of the Republic. He was Chief Justice of the United States. But that was not what he regarded as the highest station in the Republic, and to that station he looked with a longing eye and a heavy heart.

DEATH OF A FAMOUS FEMALE SMUGGLER.—From Scotland we learn that Elizabeth, better known all over Deeside as "Lizzie" Davidson, the last of a daring band who, during the first quarter of the present century, carried on the traffic in smuggled whisky between the illicit distillers in the highlands and the "Sassenach" consumers in the low country, has just died at Kincluny, on the estate of Durris, at the age of 75 years. She was the youngest and last survivor of a family of smugglers, and was born at Inver, near Balmoral, where her brothers, men of great fame in the district for agility and prowess, for many years lived in a state of chronic warfare with the officers of the excise, and in more degenerate times with the gamekeepers. The sisters frequently joined the brothers on their smuggling excursions, and, like most of their class, the family were nearly ruined when they found it necessary to adopt a more settled mode of life. The last Duke of Gordon kindly conferred a house and small croft on the two sisters, where they carried on a small shop and inn till about twenty years ago, when, on the death of the older, Elizabeth gave up business.

A poor blind beggar had his eyesight suddenly restored in East Saginaw, the other day, by being pushed head over heels into a mud puddle, but showed his ingratitude by chasing the man who did it round half the blocks in the city.

Boston gave $1,836 75 for the wrecked passengers of the Atlantic, $244 22 to William Hoys, the sailor-hero, and $227 92 to John Henley, the only boy saved.

CITY.

[illegible] Shoshone.—The Oregon Steam Navigation Company's steamer Shoshone will be brought through the Cascades of the Columbia in [illegible] of a month—or whenever the stage of [illegible] will admit of her passage down over the [illegible] rocks without risk. Before this can [illegible]plished without hazard, the river must [illegible] the highest stage, which is generally the [illegible] about the last of June. The current loses [illegible] of its swiftness and force when the river [illegible] its highest stage. Immense volumes of [illegible] pouring over fill up the channel and will enable [illegible] to pass in comparative safety above the [illegible] which would at an ordinary stage tear the [illegible]. Even during the summer freshet [illegible] to bring down a steamer is not unattended with danger. Skill, nerve and presence of [illegible] an intimate knowledge of the channel, are all necessary on the part of the pilot, to steer aright amidst the boiling eddies and avoid the many sunken rocks which [illegible] the river at that point. Some years ago the Company's steamer Okanagon was [illegible] over by Capt. Stump. But with all the [illegible] of that experienced boatman, the attempt [illegible] rather damaging to the boat. When about half way over the cascades, the steamer struck on a [illegible] rock, which made a breach in the hull. So sudden was the shock that before the engineer and firemen could get [illegible] water was knee deep. [illegible] the current the steamer was carried into an eddy and thrown up against the shore. [illegible] to reach the Okanagon and make [illegible] she could proceed to this city. [illegible] ago the splendid steamer One[illegible], with Capt. J. C. Ainsworth at the wheel, [illegible] from the Dalles to Portland. With all the care possible, the current obtained a momentary advantage of the helm while descending and the boat was carried square up against the [illegible]. A strong eddy setting directly from the [illegible] was to be crossed by the steamer. Capt. [illegible] on perceiving the danger of the situation, [illegible] vigorously for the engineer to reverse the wheels. This was done in time, so that the engines and eddy checked the speed of the [illegible] and prevented a collision which would [illegible] disastrous. As it resulted, [illegible] slightly battered, and every one on [illegible] feet by the instantaneous [illegible]. [illegible] Shoshone is a stern-wheel boat [illegible] the size of the E. N. Cooke. She was [illegible] ago at Olds' Ferry, on Snake [illegible]paratively new, having been used [illegible]. Besides the splendid new steamer [illegible], which will be completed in a [illegible] the Company have several other [illegible] the Upper Columbia. These boats [illegible] for the [illegible] all the demands of [illegible]. It is for this reason that the [illegible] be brought down and placed on the [illegible], to be used whenever [illegible].

[illegible]—Poetry, romance and [illegible] inculcate the principle [illegible] in all the [illegible] of life, virtue is triumphant [illegible] bound to suffer. There occurred in [illegible] ago, an instance in the chap[illegible] which would seem to prove that [illegible] its reward and [illegible], is not without exception. [illegible] Stanton was employed [illegible] territory in the honorable and [illegible] of chopping wood. He obtained [illegible] of $1 25 per day for his labor. [illegible] at this laborious calling, [illegible] with his employer, pocketed [illegible] for Portland. He arrived [illegible] one week ago last Monday [illegible] the [illegible] of $109 in his pocket. [illegible] was not long in the selection of a hotel [illegible], where he registered his name and [illegible] baggage, which consisted of one [illegible]. In the evening about 9 o'clock he [illegible] out to take a look at the city, and "see the [illegible]." Stanton, although thirty years of age, was [illegible] in the ways of the city, [illegible] equally ignorant of the many pits and snares into which the unwary are liable to fall. [illegible] stroll brought him in front of a "dive" [illegible] corner of Second and Taylor streets, kept by [illegible] and Caroline Fussy. Soft strains of [illegible] evoked from an old, wheezy, rattle-trap [illegible] floated out through the partly open door, [illegible] Stanton's ears. He heard, listened, [illegible] entranced, and finally entered the [illegible]. Well, it was the [illegible] old story again. [illegible] and drink again, his heart waxed ex[illegible], he [illegible], and was [illegible] in [illegible] finally [illegible] unconscious through bad [illegible] and [illegible]. After midnight he [illegible] the saloon and laid on [illegible], where he was found some time after [illegible] in a semi-conscious state, and removed to jail. One solitary dollar was all that [illegible] of his winter's work. A warrant was [illegible], a [illegible] named Kelly, and the [illegible] Fussy, were arrested on the charge of [illegible]. An examination of the case followed, [illegible] in the two defendants being held to answer [illegible] in the sum of $500. [illegible] was experienced by these parties to give [illegible] bonds; but at length the bail was [illegible], and they of course restored to liberty, [illegible] their disreputable callings until the meeting [illegible] Circuit Court next month. Stanton, the [illegible] witness for the prosecution, was also [illegible] appear in the sum of $100. Friends or [illegible]ances he had none; no one would go his [illegible], and he was committed to await the action of [illegible] jury. Through some technicality of [illegible] the real culprits will probably escape, and [illegible] will lose his $109, and be deprived besides of his liberty for two months. Does vice or [illegible] triumph in this case?

[illegible] Command.—From a private letter received yesterday by a gentleman in this city, we [illegible] Capt. Noyes of the bark Garibaldi has purchased a large interest in the ship [illegible]. As soon as the former vessel reaches [illegible] port, which will be in the course of a few [illegible], Capt. Noyes will [illegible] of the [illegible], now at San Francisco. He will be [illegible] in command of the Garibaldi by his [illegible], at present first mate on [illegible]. The Alden Pass is about 200 tons [illegible] than the Garibaldi. Captain [illegible] a large ship owner, has no intention [illegible] in the last [illegible]. He [illegible] the sea for over thirty years, and [illegible] a vessel under his command has [illegible] with a serious disaster. This [illegible] which few sea captains can [illegible] the "rolling deep" their [illegible] of years.

[illegible] The present cold and rainy [illegible] had an effect on the Columbia [illegible], in the various ranges of [illegible] which that stream passes, and [illegible] of its largest tributaries find their [illegible] at the prevailing low temperature. In consequence the waters come to a [illegible]. Intelligence was received [illegible] at the O. S. N. Co.'s office that [illegible], and points below had [illegible], and unless warm weather should [illegible] the waters would begin to fall.

[illegible] Agents.—Messrs. Janion & Rhodes [illegible] have recently been appointed sole [illegible] Oregon, Washington and Idaho Territories [illegible] of Blood, Wolf & Co.'s celebrated [illegible] of porter and ales; Ind Coope & Co.'s [illegible] Burton-on-Trent; G. W. Murray & Co., [illegible] agricultural implement makers, Banff, [illegible] John Fowler & Co., Leeds, England, [illegible] of [illegible] plows, and also agents for [illegible] ales, Wall Park Brewery, Scot[illegible].

[illegible] Out.—Since the ship Canadienne was [illegible] of the [illegible] portion of her cargo, the [illegible] engaged in clearing up the deck [illegible] hold of the vessel. Yesterday morning a [illegible] of light boards and timber, of [illegible] the bunks are constructed, was committed to the [illegible]. For a considerable distance each [illegible] the ship, the surface of the water was [illegible] with this frail material.

Vacancies Filled.—The vacancy in the Board of [illegible] of the Herald Printing Company, occasioned by the resignation of A. B. Hallock, has [illegible] filled by the election of Hon. J. W. Nesmith. Hon. George L. Curry has been selected to fill the office of President of the company, vice A. B. Hallock, resigned. The vacancy in the office of Secretary, which was occasioned by the resignation of Charles Newell, was filled by the election of R. B. Curry.

For the Graders.—The steamer Fannie Troup will carry away this morning fif[illegible] of rice for the various camps of [illegible] along the line of the Northern Pacific Railroad.

Heavy Wind.—A gentleman just from Olympia [illegible] us that a heavy gale visited that place on [illegible]. No damage was done further than to [illegible] a number of valuable shade trees in the [illegible].

A Terrible Fall.—A Chinaman, who was rash enough to leap from a train of cars on Tuesday, while it was passing up Fourth street, was very severely injured. Some fifteen or twenty Chinamen were seated in the dump cars and were moving south to where the steam paddy is at work. One of the passengers, while not noticing, lost his hat, which was carried some distance away on the stiff wind before it alighted. Apparently without the least thought as to consequences, the fellow straightened up and leaped to the ground. It was at the steepest part of the grade on Fourth street, and the train was moving at the rate of eighteen miles or more an hour. Our Celestial friend vainly imagined that he would land on his feet and "alight running." But never had he indulged in a more delusive hope. The instant he left the car, his pedestal extremities shot up in the air, while his head went the other way. Instead of planting his No. 12 boots on terra firma, the back of his neck and shoulders came in contact with the hard planks. His avordupois, added to the momentum received from the train, caused him to fairly rebound several feet into the air. All supposed the fellow was killed outright. Blood gushed from his nose and ears, and also from a fearful gash cut on the back portion of his head, and ran all over his person, causing him to present a terrible gory spectacle. He lay senseless and helpless for some time. Finally the train was stopped and several of his comrades sent back to his assistance, who took him to the Chinese quarters on Alder street. His injuries are severe, but will not prove fatal. He recovered the worthless old hat nearly at the sacrifice of his head.

In Tribulation.—One of the raw recruits from the Celestial Empire, who arrived on the Canadienne, met with a ludicrous mishap on Tuesday evening. Not being conversant with our habits and customs, this old fellow started along up First street from the ship, following the street car track. On his shoulder he bore a very large sack of rice, which, from its weight, caused the Celestial to totter along with a shuffling and unsteady step. Suddenly he stumped his toe, when all descended in a heap. The strain brought to bear on the sack was too much for it to resist, the matting burst asunder, and the rice was scattered along the track for two or three yards. To aggravate matters, at that juncture the street car came dashing along. John seemed disposed to guard with a jealous eye his property from vandal hands, and when the car drew near, he did not manifest a disposition to make way. But a shout from the driver to "git, there," and a crack from his whip, caused John to beat a retreat, which he did in good order. The hoofs of the horse made the rice fly in all directions as he passed, so that when another Chinaman came to the rescue with a new sack, but little of the staple article remained to be gathered up.

Oregon Complimented.—We are informed that Dr. Aug. C. Kinney, late of this city, an Oregon boy, son of Robert C. Kinney, Esq., of Salem, has been appointed Chief of the Medical Staff of Charity Hospital, New York city, by Mayor Havemeyer. The position to which Dr. Kinney has thus been unexpectedly called, is one both of honor and profit—a position that has been sought and filled by some of the most eminent and learned physicians and surgeons that America has produced, and one that commands a salary of $5,000 a year. Dr. Kinney was formerly on the Medical Staff of the Hospital for three years, when he resigned to come to this city to practice his profession. The appointment was entirely unexpected, and was of course a pleasant surprise to the Doctor, who left immediately for New York city, where he arrived safely day before yesterday. Oregonians need have no fear but that the talent of our State will be well and ably filled by the Doctor.

From Sitka.—Lieutenants Hand and Clarke arrived last evening in the city from the Sound. These officers belong to the United States Revenue Marine, having been for two years in and about Alaska on board the revenue schooner Reliance. They are at present en route for the East, each on orders to report—Lieut. Hand at Portland, Maine, and Lieut. Clarke at Newport, R. I. The Reliance was left at Port Townsend. She will be surveyed and either sold or repaired. Considerable excitement is reported by these officers to exist about the recent discoveries of gold bearing quartz at Silver Bay, near Sitka, in which ex-Collector Geo. A. Eades is interested. Mr. Chapman has assumed charge of the Collectorship and is indorsed as the man for the place.

Stolen.—One of the boarders at the American Exchange Hotel lost a purse containing $125 yesterday morning. When he retired to bed the evening previous, he took the [illegible] out of his pocket and placed it under the pillow. Yesterday morning he arose, dressed himself, and went down to wash, forgetting to take his purse. He happened to think of the money when about half through and returned to the room, but to his great chagrin discovered his purse missing. A vigorous search was instituted, but to no purpose, for neither money was discovered nor the thief apprehended.

Rehearsal.—A series of sacred concerts, we learn, will be given in the new Trinity Church in the course of the next month, prior to the dedication of that building, to the divine purposes for which it was erected. The series will consist of two or more concerts, given under the musical directorship of Dr. J. H. Hatch, present leader of the Trinity Church Choir. All the musical selections will be of a sacred character. Last evening the first rehearsal for the series was held at the music store of G. L. DePrans.

Pacific University.—The annual examinations in Tualatin Academy and Pacific University will be continued through next week—the last week in May. Commencement will be on Wednesday, the 4th of June. On Tuesday evening, the 3d, Rev. J. D. Eaton will deliver an address before the Literary Societies. The baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class will be preached on the Sunday morning previous, in the Congregational Church by the President.

From Panama.—A private letter was received in this city last evening from Dr. Temple, who it will be remembered left this city some time ago for South America. Dr. Temple was at Panama when the letter was written where he would [illegible] one month in consequence of not making the connection with the English steamer. He was to have sailed for his destination on the 15th instant.

Another Club.—A new base ball club has just been organized in the city, which supports the euphonious title of the "Spartan Club." On Tuesday evening last a meeting was held at which the following officers were elected: A. Jacobi, Captain; L. Cornart, President; G. Cohen, Treasurer; G. Davies, Secretary. The members will meet at the Central School yard Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, when the Captain will assign them their positions.

Nearly Finished.—The new and elegant steamer Daisy Ainsworth, at the Dalles, will be completed and ready to make the trial trip in about two weeks. She will be by all odds the largest and finest boat now owned by the O. S. N. Co., which is saying a great deal when the dimensions and appointments of such steamers as the Emma Hayward and Dixie Thompson are known.

Ascension Day.—This being Ascension Day, divine service will be held in St. Helens Chapel, Madison street, near Fourth, at 11 o'clock, on which occasion a sermon will be preached and the Holy Communion will be administered. Seats free.

The Auditor reported that Jacob Kamm and another had appealed to the Circuit Court from the award made by the viewers, and adopted by the Council, in the matter of the proposed extension of West Main street, and that suits had been commenced by the same parties to enjoin the making of said extension. The matter was referred to the City Attorney with instructions to make the proper defense.

THE CHINESE NUISANCE.

The San Francisco Chronicle of May 15th contains the following:

"In the very heart of San Francisco some 12,000 Chinese are congregated; densely crowded in narrow alleys, living under ground, sleeping in bunks like those of a crowded ship, packed into houses like herring in a box; nearly all males, working, living, sleeping, cooking in the most crowded manner possible. The result is dirt, filth, stench and horrible smells. If the same number of white people were living in the same mode, our Health Office would nose itself into the heart of it, and notices to clean vaults, plush sewers and clean up generally would be distributed in every house. The Street Commissioner would serve his notices to repair streets and sidewalks, and the police would make itself most officious to cure the evil.

"This Chinese soil exists in our midst without a protest. The strumpet plies her avocation; drunken orgies make night hideous with the ravings of the opium smoker; the gambler shouts his noisy game to the music of the one stringed fiddle, and neither Health Officer, Street Commissioner, nor policeman troubles himself about the vile and abominable nuisance."

We are pleased to note the fact that the local reporter of the Herald endorses these views to the extent of incorporating them into a local item on "The Chinese Importation—Where will it End?" forgetting to credit the San Francisco paper.

A first-class photograph is worth a good price. A poor one is of no value whatever. Therefore the motto of Buchtel & Stolte is—Superior work, equal to any in the United States, for which we demand a good price, and receive the same. Our new Viewing Wagon, for Scenic Views, etc., is now ready, and all orders for pictures of buildings, etc., promptly attended to, at the First Premium Gallery, No. 91 First street, Portland, Oregon.

A number of dry goods boxes emptied of their contents led the public to believe that something new had just been opened, and upon closer inspection it was found that the boxes were addressed to J. O'Neil & Co., 95 First street, who had but a few moments before piled up in their store an extensive and varied stock of clothing, gentlemen's furnishing goods, and cloths of fine texture for the manufacture of spring styles in gentlemen's and boys' clothing.

Corn and flour are staple articles, but not more so than Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, where known. It is good for children or adults, for any internal soreness of the chests or bowels, and the best Liniment prepared, under what[ever] name.

An exchange says: "Mad dogs will not drink water. If an animal is suspected, offer him a drink from the nearest milk cart—if he laps it, he's safe. If he don't feel thirsty, shoot him."

We noticed several of the passengers who came on the steamer carrying guns some with a full battery. If they have any expectation of meeting the Modocs we would inform them that it is only three days travel to the lava beds from Portland and very few hereabouts trouble their minds about the Modocs.

Our mathematical genius calculates and proves by figures, that the rain fall of yesterday was worth exactly one million five hundred thousand dollars to the State of Oregon in the matter of helping the spring crop of wheat. Being as the genius aforesaid couldn't tell a plow from a log sled, his opinion may be justly said to be "an opinion as is an opinion." However the rain won't do any harm.

PERSONAL.

Joe Meek, the pioneer, is in the city.

Mr. D. C. Ireland returned from the Sound yesterday afternoon.

Hon. W. D. Pittenger and his family stopped off the steamer at Astoria too long, and were consequently left behind. They will come up on the Dixie Thompson this evening.

M. W. Fechheimer, Esq., and his bride were met at the wharf last evening by numerous friends. The East Portland Band serenaded the happy couple at their rooms at a late hour.

The Empire of Coal.

Now that the price of coal has been materially advanced in England, and the limit to profitable coal production is pretty well defined, all the facts about the coal area of the United States are matters of special interest. We collate from the recent census the following data, showing the extent of the coal measures in this country:

States.	Sqr. Mls.	States.	Sqr. Mls.
New England	750	Illinois	41,000
Pennsylvania	434	Indiana	6,500
Maryland	551	Iowa	25,000
Virginia	16,000	Missouri	27,000
Ohio	10,000	Kansas	17,000
Kentucky	10,000	Arkansas	12,000
Tennessee	5,100	Texas	6,000
Georgia	170	Nebraska	3,600
Alabama	9,000	Indian Territory	13,600
Michigan	6,700
Total			220,404

We have in this estimate upwards of two hundred and twenty thousand square miles of coal fields. But in this aggregate no account is taken of nearly the whole coal-bearing region of the new Northwest. The coal measures of Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Idaho, California, Oregon and Washington Territory are imperfectly known. But enough is known to warrant the opinion that there are not less than 50,000 square miles of coal measures in this vast region. Then there is Alaska Territory, known to abound in coal.

Putting this imperfect data together, we may set down the coal measures of the United States as extending over an area of not less than 300,000 square miles.

The computation for Pennsylvania is evidently too low; probably the figures represent, in this instance, the anthracite belt, which is the most important of any known in the United States. Western Pennsylvania has an immense deposit of the best bituminous coal, which finds its way down the affluents of the Ohio to Pittsburg, and is thence sent below to all the river ports. Then there is a field put down as the Apalachian Field, extending from Pennsylvania to Alabama, crossing several States, which of itself is computed to contain over sixty thousand square miles. But how much of this field is embraced in the area of Virginia and Maryland, we have no means of knowing.

But this we know, that the coal measures of the United States are so vast that there is no probability of their being worked out for ages to come. It is probable that the coal area of the Northwest will be doubled by the discoveries to be made during the next ten years. The area known to contain coal and iron ore, is of itself a vast empire of which, for all purposes of manufacturing we have hardly taken possession.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Dress Well.—The young man who desires his "make-up" complete should always select the place where the articles desired can be obtained. For a neat-fitting suit, made of the very finest materials, the public is directed to the house of Fishel & Roberts, an establishment which ranks with the leading houses on the coast. The stock is complete, the attention paid to customers, and the promptness with which orders are filled, at once commends this house to all.

Mr. John Kennedy, formerly of the Philadelphia Shoe Store, is now at the San Francisco Shoe Store with Fleischner & Crone, where he will be pleased to wait upon his friends and customers, with one of the largest and finest stocks of boots and shoes on the coast. He will also continue to take measures for ladies' custom-made shoes.

The public mind has been somewhat agitated with the Modoc war, an occasional marine or railway disaster, and the dull times, and the prospect of buying clothing at a figure not large enough to clean a man to the bedrock. The place has been found where you can buy men and boy's clothing, or gentlemen's furnishing goods, at the very lowest prices. It is at Beck & Waldman's, corner of Front and Washington street, where a full assortment of men and boys' clothing, in the latest styles, can be selected from.

If you want pure, fine liquors of any kind go to K. D. Tyne's, northwest corner of Oak and First streets, agent for the sale of Jessie Moore & Co.'s fine Old Bourbon and Rye Whiskies of Louisville, Ky.

Proving One's Identity.

A correspondent of the N. Y. Evening post, writing from Stuttgart, Germany, under date of April 11th, relates an occurrence which will remind some of our readers of the story told of Joe. Jefferson. Jefferson called at a bank for some money one day, but was unknown to the officers. On being asked to identify himself in some way, Jefferson thought a moment, and then, with that peculiar drawl so familar to those who have heard him play "Rip Van Winkle," replied, "Schneider." It was a dog's name, but he got his money. Our German friend writes:

"What does not happen in Stuttgart? It was in the year of our Lord, 1873, on the 24th of March, when in the Suabian capital a fearful riot broke out. Everybody ran, tried to save himself, flew homward, and even the overcrowded Opera House, in which the 'Jewess,' with Mr. Labatt as 'Elazar,' was just then to be performed, when the terrible news became known, was emptied in a few minutes. Already the mob penetrates the halls consecrated to art, and nothing remains for Mr. Labatt but to fly into the streets in his costume of 'Eleazar.' Soon the strange apparition is observed. 'A Jew, a Jew,' 'catch him,' 'stone him,' is the cry that follows the fugitive. He is surrounded, and the inexorable multitude insists on the death of the 'Jew.'

"'I am no Jew,' cries the terrified singer, 'I am Labatt, the great tenor. I sing to-night in the part of "Eleazar."'

"'Anybody may say that;' 'catch him,' 'lynch him,' 'a la lanterne,' brawled the great crowd once more, and the repeated assertion of the artist that he was Labatt was of no avail.

"Then a fellow smarter than the rest, called out: 'If he is Labatt let him prove it.'

'Yes, yes, prove it,' roared the chorus, 'prove it.'

"And the artist opened his mouth and sang the aria from the fourth act of the 'Jewess.'

"And stiller and stiller it became in the circle; breathless listened the multitude to the sweet tones; but scarcely had the last note of the song ceased when endless cheering filled the air. 'Hurrah for Labatt,' 'hurrah for the great singer,' resounded out of thousand of throats. Then four men took the artist upon their shoulders, and amid the enthusiastic cheering of the same crowd carried him to Marquard's Hotel."

The all-gone feeling which people sometimes speak of, is caused by want of proper action of the liver and heart. These may be assisted and the bowels regulated by Parson's Purgative Pills in small doses.

COLEMANS Dr. J. S. Coleman's Compound Extract of Eucalyptus is a preparation combining EUCALYPTUS all the valuable medicinal qualities of the Eucalyptus, which is cultivated in nearly every California garden for its medicinal utility, having become the household remedy for all diseases of the KIDNEYS, BLADDER and URINARY CANAL, and SEMINAL WEAKNESS. It seems to have a direct affinity for the GENITO-URINARY ORGANS and their surroundings, and cures them by its alterative, healing and [illegible] properties [illegible] than any other known remedy.

It is an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the mucous and serous membranes, such as BRONCHITIS, HACKING COUGH, NAUSEA DURING PREGNANCY, DYSPEPSIA, LEUCORRHEA, etc.

This preparation is the result of Dr. Coleman's experiments with the medicinal properties of the tree in the U. S. Marine Hospital in San Francisco, in 1871 and 1872, where he had unusual facilities for testing the various methods of preparing the remedy, and its uses. It can be relied upon as certain to give the promised results, and hundreds of testimonials of its efficacy can be seen at his office, 405 Kearney street, San Francisco.

COLEMAN'S DOUBLE EXTRACT OF EUCALYPTUS is a powerful, yet harmless, febrifuge, and is a special preparation for the treatment of the malarious fevers of our interior valleys, and is warranted to cure any case of FEVER AND AGUE treated with it according to directions, while the baneful results of the usual Quinine and arsenical remedies for those diseases are entirely avoided.

FOR PHYSICIANS, Coleman's Fluid Extract of Eucalyptus in 1-lb bottles.

Beware of imitations, and take none but COLEMAN'S. For sale everywhere, and by

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, May 21, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 117¾.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 85¼ buying; 86½ selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 800 fine.

Wheat in Liverpool—Average California, 12s 5d@12s 4d, club, 12s 6d.

The week so far seems to have opened with more cheerful aspects in financial circles. Though the increase in loanable funds is not apparently great, yet there is but little doubt that there is some relaxation in the monetary pressure.

The political economists of our day need not seek much further to solve the question as to the cause of our financial stringency than the fact, that from the middle of 1872 to the last of June, 1873, the United States paid Paris the enormous sum of two hundred and sixty million dollars. This somewhat staggering amount is forwarded in gold, on account of jewelry, laces, silks, gloves, crapes, merinos, hats, human hair, and miscellaneous toilet articles. This very respectable bill does not include the gold forwarded from our shores to the French metropolis for wines, works of art, gentlemen's garments and fabrics from which to make the same. There is not a single item in the aggregate of the two hundred and sixty million which could not have been produced at home, or been readily dispensed with—and that, too, with great benefit, not only to the purse, but to the health of the consumers. So long as our people prefer to enrich foreign rivals at the expense of domestic industry, so long must gold be transmitted abroad to settle the balance of trade against us. With the exercise of prudence and common sense, Europe could in a twelve-month be made a debtor to us for cereals and meats, which she cannot do without, and the stream of gold traversing the Atlantic from January to December be forced to reverse its current and flow hitherward.

The Eastern Money Market.

Mail advices to the 10th denote a general recovery of tone in Wall street and private dispatches announce a more cheerful feeling than has been noticeable for several months past. The excessive rates for money, which caused the suspension of no less than three very respectable stock firms and the rumored failure of others, some of whom stood in high credit, have at last declined and shrewd operators regard the sustaining of the long continued "squeeze" with so few calamitous results as one of the strongest evidences of strength and bottom which could have been adduced. An exchange says: "Money continues to pour into New York from all the interior banks and this would indicate a continued and sustained ease, as the local requirements will probably not again be great until fall."

At Chicago the supply of loanable funds is steadily increasing, and the money market has settled into an easy condition for the spring and summer months. Currency is still flowing in and banks are discounting freely, and offerings are in increased amounts. Money was easy on the 11th at from 6 to 7 per cent. for call loans. Outstanding legal tenders have decreased $154,000. An advance in the Bank of England rates of interest was expected and had no marked effect.

San Francisco Money Market.

Latest advices by mail from San Francisco indicate that the supply of coin is rapidly increasing and the Money market considerably easier. The rise in stocks, especially Crown Point and Belcher, paying out in dividends some $1,800,000 in coin, and others $150,000, all tends to give strength to the market, and draws various sums from private individuals anxious to increase their capital, which would otherwise lie idle. The amount of Bullion received at the Mint from these mines is also very large, and will keep that institution busy for some time. Gold in New York continues high, under the payment of interest from the Treasury, but it does not seem to affect this market any. The disbursement of money for commercial purposes is also good, and everything tends to give great prosperity in the future. Mechanics are all busily employed in the various improvements going on, and farmers will have good crops this season, notwithstanding the great talk of want of rain. Business at the loan Societies is about as usual, and rates of interest tend upwards. The amount of Duties paid into the Custom House during the past week is on an average with previous ones, notwithstanding we have had no arrivals from foreign ports.

Our Wholesale Trade.

During the spring months so far our wholesale dealers have hardly met with the full [illegible] which were expected, and some rather unusual aspects of trade have been from time to time presented. About the first of February it was often predicted that the business of April and May would be quite active and many even hoped the aggregate would [illegible] that of last year but indications dispelled [illegible] before March had closed, and merchants who have done the business which they expected to do are very fortunate. But still we believe that the most of them have met with no very serious loss on any transactions so far. Business in the jobbing trade has been rather [illegible]. The number of buyers from the interior has been small in comparison with some previous years, but for a week or so past has somewhat increased. A very good [illegible] has been done in dry goods but hardly as heavy as was expected. Prices have ruled quite steady and but few changes are noted, the most important being a reduction on woolen goods which are still favoring buyers. Millinery goods have recently moved slowly owing to the unfavorable weather, there being as yet hardly the usual call for articles of summer wear. For boots and shoes the demand has been tolerably steady, much of it being for the heavier lines of goods. There is no change in styles but prices rule about as before. The grocery market has experienced but little if any change in the demand for staple and fancy groceries during the entire spring so far, except it may have been some slight fluctuations in sugars, syrups, etc.

The stocks on hand here are fortunately generally not excessive and the amount of imported seasonable goods of the spring carried into summer will be light.

The Wool Market.

Nothing in trade circles has more disappointed many people than the article of wool. But few were found last winter who did not believe that prices would open much in advance of what they actually did this spring. Our very latest dates by mail from the East indicate a little better state of feeling, but no decided appreciation. Buyers here do not seem to be numerous and we only hear of small lots coming to hand which are generally taken at 20 cents per pound. An exchange of the 16th from San Francisco says: "The wool arrivals here yesterday and the day before were quite large. Since March 1st we have received 24,350 bales. The sales for the past week approximate 1,000,000 lbs. The demand is active and prices firm. Burry descriptions range from 12c to 16c, while lots free of burrs sell at 17c to 22c. Occasionally, the mills pay an advance on the latter figure for an extra fine clip, long staple."

The Boston wool market on the 3d instant was thus reported:

New spring California has made its appearance, and large supplies of this description are near at hand. Some lots of new spring have been sold during the week at 27½c, and a fair quotation is from 25c to 30c. No new Kentucky combing has yet been received. Shearing operations have been delayed by the unfavorable weather, and the clip will be later than usual. Buyers do not offer more than 40@42c in Kentucky, and no contracts of any consequence have yet been made. New fat sheep wool is beginning to make its appearance from the west, and a sale has been made at 36c. That prices have touched bottom is now very generally believed, but the market has been so fluctuating for some months past, confidence is not as yet fully restored. Manufacturers are still heavily [illegible] with woolens, for which apparently there is no outlet, and any advance in prices will force many of them, who have been free purchasers for some weeks past, to withdraw from the market for the present.

Shipping Intelligence.

The Puritan has received 600 tons of her cargo of flour for China.

The Con[illegible] lies at her berth and will shortly begin to discharge cargo.

The British bark Hermine will be fully due here in about two weeks from Liverpool.

The bark Free Trade, from San Francisco, is overdue at this port.

The steamship Oriflamme, from San Francisco, with a full freight of merchandise and a large number of passengers arrived this evening.

The bark Jane A. Falkinburg went down the river today to complete her cargo for San Francisco.

Home Produce Market.

The only subject of special comment under this head to-day has been the marked decline in wheat, buyers here having reduced their quotations to $1 55 per cental. This is owing to reported rains enhancing the prospect of larger crops than were expected in California and a consequent disposition there to sell more freely. Oats are again reported dull and jobbers here decline to advance on 55 cents per bushel. Other products are mostly in demand, especially such as will bear shipment under present ruling rates in San Francisco.

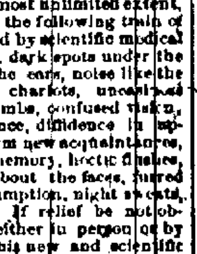
NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary.



623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases of years standing and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies. See that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the faces, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office [illegible], etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

☞REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

☞Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they saw his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian. jy5d4pt
